Trail Ride Plans Near Completion

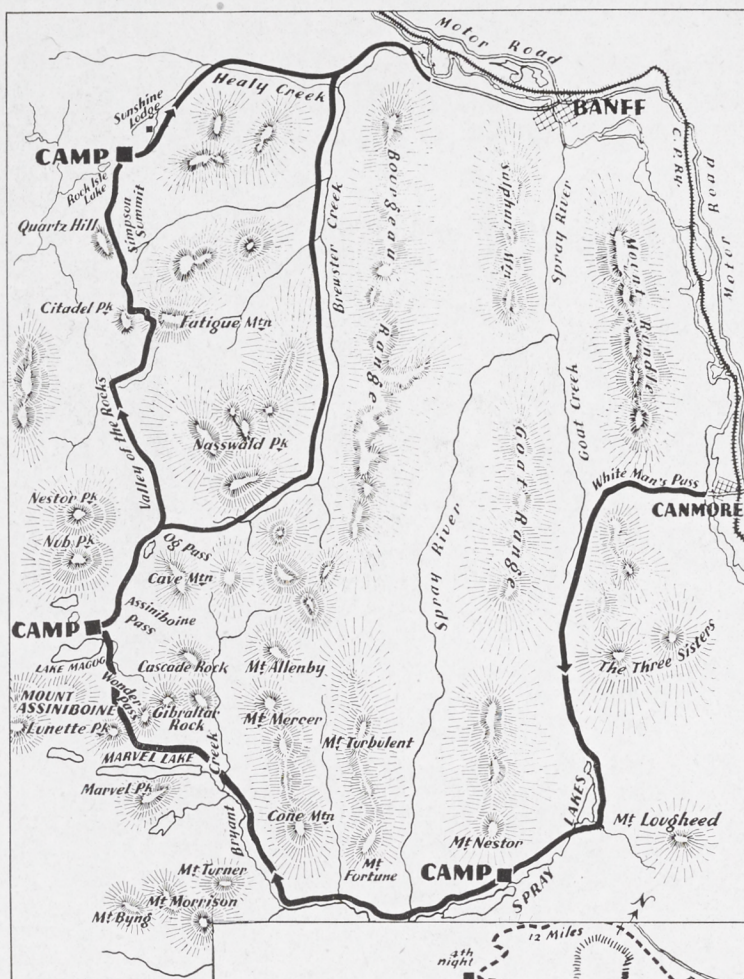

July 1st
1943

A cold Spring and heavy snows on the high plateaus of the Canadian Rockies have made it advisable to consider possible alternatives for the route of the 1943 Trail Ride, though Major Jennings says that it may yet be possible to carry out the original plan.

Anticipating this possibility, maps showing six alternative routes were sent to members of the Trail Committee asking for their choice. The majority voted in favor of the route which repeated the Trail Ride of 1941 — starting from a corral at Canmore and rising through White Man's Pass to the beautifully timbered country of which the Spray Lakes are the centre.

The Upper Spray Lake makes a convenient half-way camping site in the direction of Mount Assiniboine. In 1941 the riders made a diversion from the route taken by the pack train and rode along the western slopes of Marvel Lake and over Wonder Pass to Lake Magog and Mount Assiniboine. This is probably the most spectacular approach to the giant peak which dominates this area of the Canadian Rockies, and should be free from snow by the time of the Trail Ride.

Harvey Pass and un-named Lake

In accordance with our usual custom we shall spend two nights in whatever place is chosen for the second camp, so as to give an opportunity for rest to those who are greenhorns or who might be a bit out of practice. There is also sport for the fly fisherman in Sunburst Lake, not so far away, and there are delightful short rides and hikes in Mount Assiniboine Park.

Several Routes to Banff

The elevation of the campsite is about 7,000 feet, and for that reason the flora is of special interest. From Mount Assiniboine there are several routes back to Banff, one over the Simpson Summit to Larix Lake or Rock Isle Lake, another by way of Og Pass down Brewster Pass, and one possibly from the Simpson Summit down Fatigue Pass by an old Indian trail which may be opened up as part of the route originally suggested for this summer's itinerary.

In any case Claude Brewster will be sending his scouts over the various routes to report on conditions, so that suitable campsites may be selected and everything made ready.

A considerable number of reservations have already been sent in, some from old-timers, some from newcomers. Dr. Gow will be our medical adviser, Graham Nichols will manipulate the keys of his melodious organ, several new songs to current tune hits having been added to the song sheets; Olive Hanley will look after the tenting, Travers Coleman will bring his old stories, and, we hope, a few new ones as well, and Carl Rungius, of course, will bring his fishing rod.

We have hopes of welcoming six airmen, training under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan — two Britishers, two Australians, and two New Zealanders — selected by the Air Vice-Marshal of No. 4 Training Command from those who may be available on furlough at the time of the Trail Ride. We can count as usual on a contingent from the Kananaskis Dude Ranch. Headquarters will be at the Mount Royal Hotel where the Executive meeting will be held as usual on the day previous to the start.

President Marshall Diverty is bringing with him his color movies of last year's ride for a show that evening. Duffle for the pack train should be delivered to the Mount Royal Hotel on the afternoon of June 29th.

MAN-HATING HORSE LOVES KIDDIES

Horses have often been referred to as man's best friend, but horses don't always return the compliment — particularly where the menfolk are concerned. Take "Duchess" for instance.

Duchess is a veteran saddle pony of Banff bridge paths. A handsome bay mare of some 14 years, Duchess is kind, gentle, obliging and dependable — but only where women and children are concerned.

Put a grown man in the saddle and it's a different story. For oddly enough, Duchess is a man-hater! Or it might be more truthful to say that Duchess has no use for men.

According to Dick Roberts, manager of the stables at Banff Springs Hotel, Duchess can be safely trusted with the smallest child or the most inexperienced female of mature years. She is specially partial to youngsters. With men, however, Duchess gets temperamental.

Duchess would never get rough or unmanageable with a guest rider. With a man in the saddle, however, Duchess might require additional persuasion to get started — provided she started at all. She might also take a fiendish delight in turning left when the rider gave her the right-turn signal.

But with so many fine horses clamoring for nice men to ride them, Duchess is reserved exclusively for women and children.

Just what Duchess has against the menfolk is hard to understand. Chances are she was jilted by a fickle "dream horse" in some early equine romance; or perhaps she is simply, like many of her sex, a "man-hater". Again, she may be a career horse.

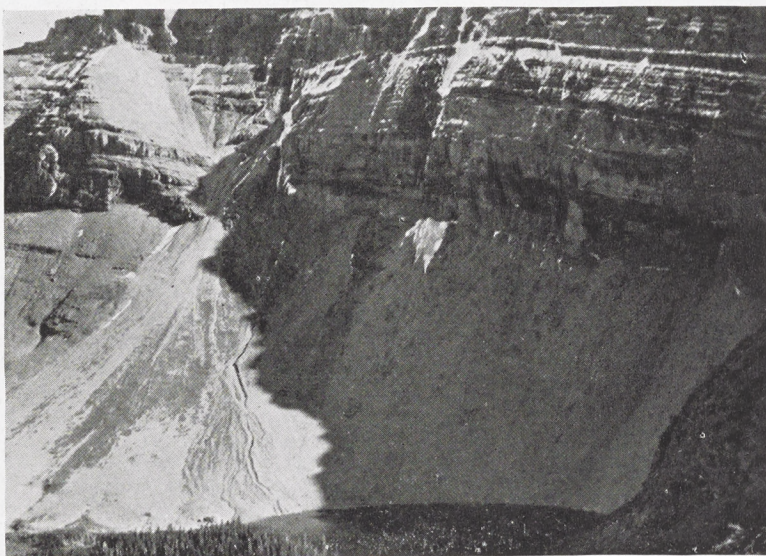

Whatever the reason, however, Duchess has no use for the men. Nor does she show any inclination to revise her attitude.

TRY THESE AT THE NEXT SING-SONG

THERE'S A LOG FIRE TO DREAM BY

(Tune — There's a Harbour of Dream Boats)

There's a log fire to dream by
Down by a moonlit lake,
Down where the riders come their camp to make;
There are swarms of mosquitoes
Waiting along the shore,
Waiting to drink their fill of human gore,
With a sting as they sing and their eyes
on the ready-made bean feast
They keep looking for the meat that they adore.
There's a log fire to dream by
Down by a moonlit lake,
Down where the riders come their camp to make.

WHEN MOONS RIDE HIGH

(Tune — As Time Goes By)

The time and place you're riding in gives cause for apprehension;
What is your real intention
Is what she hopes you'll mention —
If you get a trifle weary
Of rather pointed query,
Bring her gently back to earth,
Talk income tax, relieve the tension —
She won't make so much progress in getting you tied down,
If you discuss the ration cards and cost of life in town.

Chorus

You must remember this,
As mountain breezes kiss,
How quickly moments fly;
And none can tell the reason why
As you ride by.
So say as one should do
"I'll see you by and bye"
When you must bid adieu —
Ignore the hankie at her eye
At this goodbye.
Beware of moonlight when you make a date—
Moonlight may tempt you too fond love to state;
Tell her your income, don't equivocate —
She'll find out if you lie!
A life with lots of leisure
To ride the Trails for pleasure
Is what is in her eye.
The mountains are the place for lovers
When moons ride high.

SUN-TAN BECOMES YOU

(Tune — Moonlight Becomes You)

Stand there a moment, missie,
Let me take a snap —
I've never seen a figure so entrancing —
Do try to keep that young cayuse from prancing.

Refrain:

Sun-tan becomes you, it goes with your eyes;
To ride in the mountains is surely wise;
Sun-tan becomes you, and curls in your hair,
And the half-Indian outfit you wear.
You're all dressed up for the Trail Ride,
Now don't tell me I'm wrong,
The Rockies across-hill-and-dale ride,
Mind if I tag along?
If I should admire you, I want you to know
It's not because you've sun-tan, although Sun-tan becomes you so.

YOU'D BE SO JOLLY TO CAMP WITH

(Tune — You'd Be So Nice To Come Home To)

It's not that you're fatter
Than a lot of girls who go riding,
That I doff my hat
As a worshipper at
Your shrine.
It's not that your chatter
Sends the other boys into hiding,
No, my dear, this keeps me deciding
Why you've got to be mine.

Chorus

You'd be so jolly to camp with,
You'd look so sweet by the fire,
Where the stars above
Light the trail to love,
That's the trail that all folk desire.
Under trees
Shading the teepees,
Under a big round moon
Far from all strife;
You'd look so sweet,
You'd be such a treat
To make camp with for life.

FRIENDLY FISH PERFORM FOR BANFF VISITORS

Every fish "gets away" in one of the trout-teeming pools near Banff Springs Hotel — even though they swallow the bait in one gulp.

The reason is that there's never any hook or line attached to the bait. This would be a serious breach of etiquette at the Banff National Park fish hatcheries where colorful rainbow trout take kindly to the non-predatory tourist.

What's more, the friendly finsters take the bait direct from the "angler's" fingers, the bait usually consisting of anything from bread to cigar butts.

The trouts' sociability increases in direct proportion to their appetite. They are particularly amiable in the early evening when tourists come down to slip them a bedtime snack and watch them jump for their supper.

Visitors at this time are greeted by a reception committee of expectant trout that do everything but leap into their laps!

Whereas shier fish prefer their snack at a respectful distance, the bolder of the species snatch it direct from the fingers of their benefactor.

The fish can sense the visitor's approach at a remarkable distance and rush to that section of the pool en masse. If the visitor comes empty-handed the fish withdraw contemptuously.

Many an ardent angler has stood gazing wistfully into the trout-teeming water, as speckled beauties swam leisurely by within an arm's reach. So conscious are the fish of their government protection, that frustrated anglers often feel that they are being handed a piscatorial "razzberry".

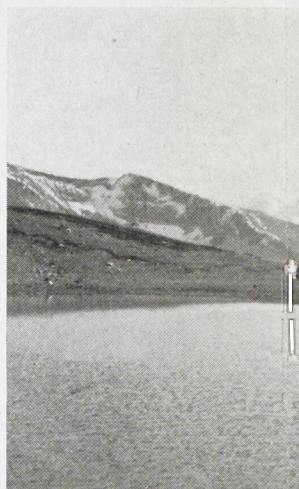

Meantime they provide a delightful side-show for Banff visitors, trail riders, hikers, and tourists, while their finny progenies at the hatcheries keep Banff's surrounding lakes and alpine streams in a constant state of replenishment.

Amount for a Mount

by Ernest W. Wakefield

"Pretty soft!" says you as you plod leisurely along the trail, as you eat a delectable plate of victuals without the spectre of dish-washing spoiling your appetite, as you sleep in cozy teepees under the stars. No, a dude Trail Rider hasn't much to worry about, unless perhaps it's trying to hit a high note at the evening sing-song.

But what goes on behind the scenes? You can take this accountant's word for it that there's plenty going on — enough to set many a trail ride pony rearing on his haunches and whinnying with exasperation! The duties may not include washing dishes, pitching teepees, or horse wrangling. But as for wrangling with figures — Well, read on.

Remember those Trail Rider bulletins you receive four times a year? Well, that's where the fun begins. Suppose we print 2,500 copies of the magazine — and we did last edition. These are rushed from the presses, stuffed into envelopes and addressed to every member on the official list — a nice beginning for a distant ending.

So you've worn yourself out stuffing Christmas cards into their respective envelopes, maybe a dozen or so? To that we of the Bulletin staff say "Come up and see us sometime. We'll show you what stuffing envelopes really is." Maybe you'd even like to help us. Fortunately we don't have to lick the envelopes or stick on the stamps. But we do make a nice job of folding 'em and making the things fit. And that's not nearly as exciting as splashing a mountain pony across a rushing cataract.

Checks and money received must be acknowledged and deposited in the bank — and you can bank on it that the money is deposited to the account of the Trail Riders. If a slip up takes place here, it will only add to the gray hairs of the accountants who must prepare the annual statement during the hot days of the latter part of June.

If you were to drop into Room 318 Windsor Station, say about June 28th, you would find that the favorite subject under discussion was the Trail Rider statement. Some of the staff would be looking jovial over the fact that they did not have to do it.

Others would be looking serious, wondering when it would be ready. The other two members of the staff would be looking between the stages of bewilderment and insanity. These latter are the persons who are wondering where that $50.00 has gone to.

Of course it is difficult to get a balance the first time. It is something like horse back riding — your figure will not exactly fit and you have to go back and try all over again. If you go home without striking a balance, you are bound to have nightmares, and in your dreams you will see pack horses, teepees, checks and a few guides, with the odd clicking of a second-hand adding machine, which you find is only your alarm clock telling you that another day has dawned and you are still off balance.

What a sock to start the day off — and you get that "break fast" feeling as it dawns upon you that the days are slipping by and that statement is not yet balanced!

Where can that $1.67 be? You have got so near and yet so far from the balance — perhaps it is bank interest or even exchange on Mr. Palenske's check. The bank book is then scanned closely, receipts are checked over, files are searched through — but all in vain.

It is now July 7th and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies has reserved his lower berth to Banff, and his bags are already packed and yet we're $1.67 out. Never before was $1.67 such a large sum of money. "Oh yes, check those blankets" and by this time you feel like a wet one.

At last a smile lightens your face — here is one dollar, what a relief! Only 67 cents out and then another check — 25 cents more to the good and only 42 cents — 42 cents — left to be found.

It's now July 8th and 90 degrees in the shade — only 25 cents out. Now it's too hot to figure anyway. But you can bet that elusive two bits will show up before the next issue. It always has.

Apologies to "Bud Fisher"

One Month on the Trails

with Caroline Hinman

Hinman Party at Quartz Hill

A delightful sequel to the annual Trail Ride for those who can spare an extra month on the trails is being offered by Miss Caroline Hinman of Summit, N.J. whose proposed itinerary is being outlined in the Bulletin for the benefit of any Trail Riders who might be interested.

Leaving New York on August 3rd the party will join their outfit August 6th at Lake Louise station and proceed on horseback to the first night's camp at Ptarmigan Valley. Tents will be set up in readiness for the riders who will be able to "look through feathery larch trees far down the valley to snow-capped peaks near Lake Louise."

Miss Hinman's description continues as follows: "For 22 days we will ride leisurely through the mountains, pausing for two, three or four-day "lay-overs" in charming spots on the shore of lake and stream or near timberline on mountain pass. There will be fishing at almost every one of our camps and glorious rides to take, over park-like alplands carpeted with wild flowers—a paradise for color photographers.

"One camp will be beside a lake in the Valley of the Red Deer, another on a grassy bench above the Clearwater River, with entrancing views up and down the valley. In a lovely spot at the head of the Pipestone River we will spend a night or so near a water-fall which plunges into a deep pool full of gamey cut-throat trout.

"We will have several days beside a placid lake mirroring rocky peaks, in a high valley dotted with other lakes—and so secluded that one could spend a summer here and never be seen by the pack trains passing on the trail a thousand feet below. Our last camp will be beside a tiny hidden trout stream full of riffles and pools and darting trout. From here on August 27th, we will ride nine miles back to Lake Louise to take the train for Montreal, arriving New York on the evening of August 30th.

Transportation arrangements have been completed, a first class cook has been engaged, and arrangements with the Calgary rationing board to obtain fresh food supplies have been effected. The price for everything, including tips to the wranglers and cook, from the arrival of the train at Lake Louise August 6th to its departure August 27th is $300.00.

RALPH JAMES DIES AT JASPER

The recent passing of Ralph James of Jasper, Alta. will be learned with deep regret by Trail Riders in both Canada and the United States. A member of long standing, the late Mr. James joined the organization in August, 1926 and had more than 2,500 miles of trail riding to his credit.

His valuable work in the development of trails and his artistic ability are described by Major Fred Brewster of Jasper who knew Mr. James for more than 30 years. Major Brewster's letter reads as follows:

"Ralph was one of the first residents of Jasper Park, taking up his abode near Fiddle Creek, where he established himself in a very attractive little ranch home. From this as his headquarters, he vigorously pushed the development of good trails.

"Mr. James was essentially an artist and his beautiful wood-work and carving may be found in all parts of Jasper, and perhaps more particularly, the interior of the beautiful lounge room of Jasper Park lodge."
